

NBSS trains students for careers in traditional trades that use hand skills in concert with evolving technology. Our mission is to preserve and advance craft traditions while promoting a greater appreciation of craftsmanship.

For more than a century, our exceptional programs, master faculty, and inspiring community have helped students to achieve meaningful lives and careers. The School's 64,000-square-foot facility is located in Boston's historic North End, the community in which it was originally founded in 1881.

We offer nine full-time training programs to those seeking a career in traditional trades. A variety of short-term Community Education courses are also available.

The three-year, comprehensive Violin Making & Repair program is one of the few full-time instrument making programs in the U.S. The curriculum provides a solid foundation to the art and science of stringed instrument making, and an introduction to restoration.

VIOLIN MAKING & REPAIR

A good life, built by hand.

NBSS

Violin Making & Repair is learned through hands-on work. The program follows the high standards of the craft and teaches repair, restoration, and set-up of stringed instruments. Over the course of this three-year program, you'll build six violins and a viola. Students, alumni, and faculty have received international recognition for the craftsmanship and tonality of their instruments.

“It's rare to find an institution where great value is placed upon tradition, time-honored technique, and plain old hard work.”
